SOLOISTS IN CANTATA "SLEEPING BEAUTY."

In presenting Cowan's cantata, "Sleeping Beauty," with animated tableaux given in connection with the beautiful music, the Moline Choral union is offering music lovers a unique and a really beautiful entertainment. Realizing this fact there has been a good demand from patrons of music for tickets for the affair to be given Thursday night in the Moline high school auditorium. With tri-city singers as soloists the concert will be particularly interesting. Miss Grace Ames of Davenport and Miss Vera Cooper of Moline will sing the soprano roles, Virginia Tunnicliffe will be contralto soloist, Henry Wheelock, tenor, and T. M. Wheelock and R. A. Lynch, basses. Principals of the tableaux will be:

King—G. A. Shalberg.
Queen—Mrs. Richard Hordford.
Prince—Richard Hordford.
Princess—Miss Carl Cooper.
Fairy witch—Miss Ruth Love.

Miss Dorothy Simpson as the Premier Danseuse will present a clever original dance which she has never given before and a pretty feature will be a minuet given by the court dancers to music called "Serenity," written by Miss Edna Mitchell. The Misses Sarah Ainsworth, Helen Anderson and Frances Desautels and Messrs. Bowman Hinkley, Earl Jamison and Lewis Krimmel have been chosen as the court dancers.

The Choral union, which has been self-supporting for the last two years, will have an indebtedness of $450 to meet this year and all members are working untiringly for the success of Thursday evening's concert so that the musical organization may continue unencumbered.

A time of sociability was enjoyed and a delightful lunch was served. Numerous requests have come to the class for the repetition of the play and it will probably be given in the nearby towns in the near future.

HEART and HOME PROBLEMS

MRS. ELIZABETH THOMPSON

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) Will you please tell me something that will keep the hair in curl for a good while after it is curled on kid curlers? My hair stays in curl about two days, then it is straight again.

(2) What is a nice Christmas present for a brother about 18 years old? Something I can make?

(3) I am 16 and am in the second year of high school. A great many boys of my age go to the same school. Several of them have asked me to go places with them and I have refused. Now they seem more anxious to come than ever. I do not like to keep steady company. Many of the girls have told me that these boys talk about me and call me "some chicken." This makes me very angry. What can I do to make them stop?

BLACK EYES.

(1) To a tablespoonful of quinine seeds, bruised, add a pint of soft water. Boil gently until the quantity is reduced to three gills. Then strain and when cold add two tablespoonfuls each of cologne and alcohol. For applying to the hair a small sponge to the best agent. This lotion should be put on before using curlers.

(2) A box of candy and nut meats would be the most acceptable present for your brother. I think. You might make him a necktie, but most boys are prejudiced against home-made ties.

(3) The girls are very crude or they wouldn't tell you what the boys say. They could help you, if the boys really say such things, by suggesting that you pump your hair too much, wear your dresses too short or appear too willing to pick up a conversation with boys. Tell your brother what you have told me and ask him if there is anything about your appearance of manner that could possibly make boys consider you cheap. Don't worry too much about what the girls have said, because their remarks are probably the result of jealousy. Boys who would say disrespectful things about one girl to another are not gentlemen.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: How long does it take for one's hair to get its own color back if it has been bleached? Do you have to wash with oil? I am very blonde.

The change will begin at the roots, as new hair grows out but the long tresses will stay almost as they were when being treated, sure that the shade will become dingy and worn, and a general "mousy-colored" aspect evident. Attention which will help to stimulate the natural oils while providing a substitute for them at first will hasten an improvement.

At night when the hairpins have been taken out, a long-bristled brush should be drawn through the tresses, from scalp to ends, for at least five minutes, and preferably 10. The hair is to be divided into sections, that are stroked separately, that each portion shall have a thorough going over. I would then suggest using a tonic made from one and one-half ounces of coconut oil, two and a quarter drams of tincture of nux vomica, one ounce of Jamaica bay rum and 20 drops of oil of bergamot. This is greasy, and is to be kept from the long hair.

Divisions are made, one at a time, close together on the scalp, and the tonic rubbed in with the finger tips, until every part of the surface has been gone over. Then the scalp requires massage to drive in the application, the finger tips being rested securely on the head and the joints moved without displacing the tips. This causes the scalp to move over the skull. It is better to apply the tonic a little at a time each day than to put on a great deal every other day. If too large quantities are used the hair will become so clogged that to dress it is impossible.

In the morning there should be another thorough brushing, the bristles made to touch the scalp at every part.

To Have Perpetually Wavy, Curling Hair

Perpetually wavy, curling hair is now within the means of every woman to possess. All one need do is to get a few ounces of plain liquid salerine at any drug store and apply a little of it occasionally. This is remarkably effective in producing a beautiful curling and setting glass which bears no evidence of artificial making. It is neither sticky or greasy, and it will not attract, stain or injure hair or scalp in the least.

After one trial, the surprising, hair-defining curling iron will never more be used. The best way to apply the salerine is with a clean tooth brush, drawing this through the hair from root to tip. If this is done before retiring, a look into the mirror in the morning will afford a most agreeable surprise.
